SLAYERS OF WILSON

Out 3 Minutes in Case of Dunn and O'Sullivan; Death Sentence Pronounced.

NO DEFENSE IS OFFERED

Prisoners Say They Did it for Ireland: Ask Jury of European Powers.

LONDON, July 13 (Associated Press) inald Dunn and Joseph O'Sullivan found guilty to-day after trial in he Old Bailey of the murder of the late field Marshal Sir Henry Hughes Wilson, was shot down in front of his home on Eaton place twenty-six days ago. They were sentenced to death. The jury was out three minutes.

The Attorney-General's case for the prosecution required barely half an hour to present. The prisoners had admitted the killing, but the Judge ordered the trial to continue.

the killing, but the Judge ordered the trial to continue.

Before opening the defense Artemus Jones of counsel for the prisoners asked that Dunn be allowed to make a statement from the dock. The statement was handed to the Judge, who declared it to be a political manifesto justifying the right to kill, and that he therefore could not allow it to be read. The court said Dunn could give evidence if he wished.

The defendants' counsel asked the court for a short adjournment for consultation, which was granted. When the attorneys returned Mr. Jones announced that the defendants took the view that cwing to the Judge's refusal to permit Dunn's statement to be read they no longer wished to have legal representation. Therefore Mr. Jones said that he had no alternative but to withdraw from the case.

Halle, Prussian Saxony, July 18 (Assisted Press)—Rather than give themselves up to the police when on the verge of capture, Hermann Flischer and Edwin Kern, sought by the German authorities as the assassins of Poreign Minister Rathenau, committed suicide by shooting last evening in the turret of Sasleck Castle, near Rath Koesen, to Edwin Kern, and Earth would be "The Dance to the Work of the Work of Capt. Erhardt, head of the work which they had been tracked.

The two men were found with bullet wounds in the head after the police and over many bullet in an authorities as the assassine of Poreign Minister Rathenau, combile in a Bernard Work of the Work of Skeffington, and Capt. Hardy, who murdered Brigadler—"

Here the judge interrupted, saying that he would not allow the occasion to be used for political purposes. Dunn continued with a suggestion that the case should be arbitrated by a "court of the higher powers of Europe, competent to deal with these matters, which would be more considerate of the rights and wrongs of ridding the human world of a scourge."

O'Sullivan rose and said in a husky voice: "All I have done, my lord, I have done for Ireland I am proud to die."

There was a cry of "Hear, hear," from the rear of the dock. The black cap was placed upon the judge's head and he passed the sentence of death on Dunn. When he ended with the words, "and may the Lord have me cy on your soul," Dunn said quietly, "He will, my lord."

The judge then sentenced O'Sullivan, who cried: "You may kill my body, my lord, but my spirit you will never kill."

Both Dunn and O'Sullivan said that they did not wish to give evidence or call witnesses. Dunn was given the insert of addressing the jury. He said:

"I suppose I must cut out the patriotic attitude I feel inclined to use under these circumstances, but I must state that I still feel proudly conscious that I am an Irishman."

Dunn said that he desired to give an honest statement from his own national point of view. This privilege, he stated, lad been denied him. He had taken his share in European war fighting, he said for the principles for which England for the principles for which England for the principles for which England for the principles of the count, were not applied to my own country and I have, therefore, endeavored to strike a blow for them," Dunn asserted.

Asked if he had anything to say why sentence of death should not be pronounced, Dunn rose and began:

"There exist certain living exceptions to this general rule of justice."

Some persons that you call "snobs" are merely discreet

Snobbishness and Discretion are terms that are frequently confused. If you don't know the difference, go to the nearest dictionary.

"A snob," says the book of words, "is a person who vulgarly affects gentility; one who regards wealth or position rather than character." Discretion is defined as the habit of wise judgment.

A great many persons are indiscreet in their choice of friends simply and solely because they are afraid of being called snobs. In other words, they borrow from Peter to pay Paul. Or something like that.

When it comes to choosing a newspaper, don't be a snob about it. Of course, you wish to read the paper that most of the leading people read; but the basis of the choice lies not in snobbishness but in the character of the paper.

A newspaper should be regarded as an intimate friend. It comes into the bosom of your family every day. Your wife reads it. Your children read it. It influences their opinion on important problems of the day.

Except for relatives and next door neighbors, a newspaper is the closest friend you have.

And you should know that the circulation of The New York Tribune in the various residence districts of Greater New York varies exactly in proportion to the quality and intelligence of their inhabitants.

Don't be a snob; but be discreet.

Your "Minute Men" for Concrete Work

You may be thinking of building a bird bath or an office building, a home or a silo, and you may be wondering whether Concrete is the material to use. No need to wonder long. By return mail from our nearest office, you can get the facts about that special use of Concrete in a free everyday-language booklet on the subject.

Booklets of this sort have been prepared by the Portland Cement Association on all the common uses of Concrete, They give not only counsel on the conditions under which each use is advisable, but specific instructions for carrying out the work.

And if any question is left unanswered in your mind after read-ing the booklet on the subject that interests you, one of our specialists in that particular class of Concrete work, will gladly answer it.

The information in the booklets is based partly on the findings of our research laboratory and partly on the field experiences and investigations of our engineers. It is accepted as a basis of practice by well-informed engineers, architects and builders throughout the

The publication of these booklets, and their circulation without charge, is one of the numerous activities carried on by the Portland Cement Association for the service of users of Concrete.

The Association is the joint research and educational foundation of 85 independent manufacturers of cement in the United States, Canada, Mexico and Cuba.

Suggestions as to how our work may be made more useful to you are invited.
